Report Highlights:

Products for human consumption (as food or in food production) which are exported to Russia and are under Customs Union sanitary control must pass through a designated sanitary border checkpoint at the Russian border. The list of relevant designated checkpoints in Russia follows.

General Information:

Products for human consumption (as food or in food production) which are exported to Russia and are under Customs Union sanitary control must pass through a designated sanitary border checkpoint at the Russian border. Russia's Ministry of Health and Social Development (MoHSD) has recently approved the list of relevant designated checkpoints in Russia by its order No. 207n of March 7, 2012, which will come into force as of April 29, 2012. While the list itself has been earlier approved by GOR decree No.442 of June 3, 2011, the MoHSD order refined the list by specifying HS codes of food products that may be cleared in each checkpoint on the list.

The procedure of sanitary and quarantine control over food products, crossing the Russian section of the external border of the Russia-Belarus-Kazakhstan Customs Union (CU), is currently established by MoHSD order No. 893 of December 2006. This procedure is to be replaced by a new regulation, adopted by MoHSD order No. 218n of March 12, 2012, ten days after official publication of the latter, which has not yet taken place but is expected soon. For more information on the new regulation please see GAIN report from March 20, 2012 - RS1214 "Draft Regulation on Sanitary and Quarantine Border Control."

The list of relevant designated sanitary checkpoints in Russia, established by MoHSD No. 207n of March 7, 2012, follows.
